IN MEMORIAM
MILTON THATCHER

*Who passed from among us
on July 25, 1935*

*"Like a half-opened flower he went,
Smiling and brave,
Facing the sun of life,
Which shines no more.
But do not weep; that sun, whose setting
Caused us pain,
Has set that it may shine
With warmer ray beyond,
Where the flower will finish blooming,
And reach a beauty not for earth.*

*We, his comrades, pause
In sweet remembrance,
And, though through tears, we smile
Knowing that he smiles on us."*

Foreword

We all realize that we have the happy faculty of forgetting painful experiences rapidly and that we keep in our memory storehouse those experiences from which we have derived pleasure. Unless stimulated, our power to recall happy incidents diminishes with the passage of years, to that point where only the haziest of recollections is possible.

The experience of those who have preceded us, is to the effect that the most pleasurable years of their lives were spent with their comrades in school. We, as a group, have already come to this conclusion. As we prepare to close our four year stay in Flemington High School, this fact is borne home with great emphasis.

For most of us, graduation from high school marks the end of these pleasant days together. To commemorate the happy events of our last school year, and to provide a stimulus to help us recall our associations and school achievements, the staff of the Echo has endeavored to produce a year book, which, as the years roll by, will enable all of us to re-live and to endlessly enjoy in our memory, those pleasurable experiences, and even some of the trials that beset us in our student days.

The staff offers this, the seventh volume of the Echo as your storehouse of high school memories.

EMMA MIKE,
Editor-in-Chief

DEDICATION

who, in more than full measure, has cheerfully and willingly given of her time, thought, and energy, that we might leave Flemington High School better equipped to meet the problems of an adult world—we, the Class of 1936, sincerely dedicate this, the seventh volume of the Echo.

Theme

Hunterdon County, of which Flemington is the county seat is replete with Indian lore. Literally, thousands of valuable relics of this disappearing race have been discovered or unearthed in practically all parts of the county. The site of Flemington itself was the home of Tuccamirgan, Delaware Chief, who befriended the first settlers in this area. His grave, and that of many of his braves is within a stone's throw of our high school.

It seemed fitting, therefore, that the 1936 Echo commemorate through its theme, the memory of the original inhabitants of Flemington.

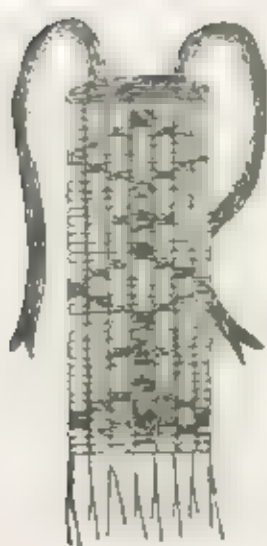

This, the staff has attempted to do through the medium of the cover, the fly leaf decorations, division pages, and a motif carried through the entire book. The division page captions have been translated into significant English names applicable to Indian life and custom. The fly leaf spread depicts the various types of lodges; the totem pole, the record of important events, captions the table of contents page; the chief with his council is symbolic of the faculty and administration, while the motif is carried through the entire book by Indian emblems on appropriate pages. Indian youths playing at what later developed into the American game of hockey is the subject of the athletic section division page. The drawing of the buffalo dance common to most Indian tribes serves to introduce that portion of the Echo allotted to clubs and organizations, and a barter scene in an Indian village prefaces the advertisements.

Senior Class History

During our last year in junior high school we were the superior ninth graders. The Hallowe'en Party, Junior High Night, and the publication of Pen and Ink were achievements of the year.

Though more subdued during our sophomore year, many of our members participated actively in various extra class activities. We were especially well represented on the various athletic squads. The Christmas Dance was our contribution to the social life of the school.

Key positions in many activities were filled by members of our class during our junior year. This was especially true of athletics and publications. Outstanding in interest, was the selection of class rings, and the Junior Prom. This latter event, held in jungle setting, was one of the most picturesque and enjoyable social affairs held in Flemington High School.

Class Night and Commencement are close at hand. As seniors we have borne the brunt of the extra-class activity program. The Hallowe'en Party in the fall, and the Washington Trip in the spring were of major importance from a social and recreational standpoint. In a few short days the Class of 1936 will join the Alumni of Flemington High School.

SWAN SONG

As our days in Flemington High School approach their close, my duty impells me to address you, my comrades, in a message of farewell.

Graduation will mean for the most of us, at least, the end of our formal education. Our next step is to find our place in the workaday world. This is, as I see it, our paramount task.

We have been told that the last twenty years have evolved startling changes in the social, economic, and political life of our country. We have not noticed it—we were busy living too close to it. This information comes to us from our elders—parents, and teachers whose retrospect is greater than our own. The old stability of which we have been told is now gone. In its place is an order whose outstanding characteristic is rapid change. In all fields, change, experimentation, and dissatisfaction with things as they are, or have been, has led in our own lifetime, to many innovations. These changes have been largely in the form of greater governmental influence and control in the life of the individual. Social, economic, and political change have been overlapping. Changing conceptions of government have influenced attitudes toward, and philosophies of social and economic life. The reverse is also true. It appears to be a cycle.

We are concerned with the fact that we must fit into, and make our living under the new order. We must also have our part in maintaining or changing it still further—for good or for ill.

Personal experience has given me small background on which to offer advice; but reflection brings forth a few thoughts which may be worth considering.

Change we have had in all orders—probably much of it haphazard and undirected. We are bombarded on every hand with demands, theories, and threats. We need to keep a cool head. It is essential that we develop and exercise the scientific habit of impartial observation—we should move slowly. Let us not blindly accept ideas simply because they seem plausible. Worthwhile progress has come largely through long sustained laborious effort. There are no such things as panaceas.

We are told on one hand that our government is obsolete, that our Constitution is fit only for the "horse and buggy" days, that our social order is decadent and obsolete, that our economic order is built on the policy of "every man for himself, and the devil take the hindmost" basis; we are urged to throw over what we have and plunge headlong into many new and untried experiments.

What should be our attitude? My counsel is this. Go slowly. The United States is a great nation, and its greatness was accomplished by hard, arduous toil under the orders we are advised to scrap overnight. We do not know the new paths, but we can look back over the old ones and discern the false turnings. These should be eliminated. Changes are necessary and should be made, but they should be made only after the need has been definitely ascertained. Avoid change simply for the sake of change. Acquire the quality of discernment and keep in open mind a retrospect. If we do this, we shall hold to what has been found good in the advancement of the world, and we shall be in a position to point out those weak spots in our social order which should be strengthened or changed, and be able to make worthy suggestions for improvement.

The transition from graduates of the Junior High School to full fledged Sophomores was marked by the need for learning the rules and regulations of the Senior High School. We were proud to be Sophomores and were delighted when we discovered the great number of activities which were opened to us by virtue of graduation from the junior school. The members of our class had been unusually active as Ninth Graders and it was not long before we had our fair share of representatives on the athletic teams and in the non-athletic organizations and groups, such as Student Voice, Echo, Key Klickers, and Student Council. This interest and participation continued throughout our junior year. One of our members was chosen for the leading role in the musical comedy "Sonia."

Socially, our Sophomore year was marked by the Christmas Dance to which the members of several classes of alumni were invited. The outstanding event of each year was the Junior Prom and we feel proud because of the favorable comments which this event under our direction called forth.

Our class will be the first to wear the new standard ring which was designed with the help of several of our class members.

September, 1934 brought together two hundred ten ninth grade pupils. The majority of our class resided outside of Flemington, and this was their first appearance as students in Flemington High School. After a short period of adjustment to the new surroundings and new regulations, we proceeded to the election of officers. The jolly Hallowe'en Party was a genuine "get together" occasion and provided natural means of acquainting class members with each other. The remainder of the year passed all too quickly. After a severe struggle with the final examinations we were graduated from the Junior High School.

The first weeks of September, 1935 constituted an anxious period for many of us. We were Sophomores. The transition period proved less troublesome than had been expected, with the result that we readily adapted ourselves to the new regulations and routine of the upper school. The Christmas Dance was the outstanding social event sponsored by our class. The usual financial difficulties incident to this occasion were easily smoothed out. As we approach the close of our Sophomore year we feel well pleased with the records of many individuals of our class, who have participated in the varied activity program of the Senior High School.

A large group photograph of the Sophomore class. The students are arranged in several rows, posing in front of a building with large windows. The photo is in black and white and has a slightly grainy, vintage quality.

Monday, 10th April 1945. A fine day, with a light breeze from the west. The temperature was in the 50s. The wind was light and variable. The sea was calm. The sky was blue with a few wispy clouds. The sun was shining brightly. The water was clear and blue. The birds were singing. The flowers were in bloom. The grass was green. The trees were full of leaves. The air was fresh and clean. The day was perfect.

REVIEW OF ATHLETICS

Sports constituted the major portion of the extra-curricular program in Flemington High School. The faculty and the Athletic Association recognized the fact that athletics help to create good sportsmanship and to build clean, healthy bodies. With the aid of the students, they built up a well-balanced program of inter-scholastic and intramural sports. Football, basketball, baseball and track were the major sports of the school, although it was apparent that the newly formed tennis and girls' field hockey teams would soon take important places in the athletic program.

The 1935 Football Team, under the guidance of the new coach, Mr. Harold C. Schaible, enjoyed a mediocre season, and although considerably outclassed in some games, they improved steadily and reached their peak when, though much outweighed, they won a moral victory over their traditional rival, Lambertville, on Thanksgiving Day. The prospects for next year are bright. In addition to promising new material, several letter men—Martyn, Rosanio, Calio, Burget, Jones, and Milan will return to school in the fall.

The Boys' Basketball Team, coached by Mr. Hetterson, enjoyed their most successful season since 1931. They started the season slowly, but soon found their stride and brilliantly swept through their league opponents, winning seven out of eight league games. They captured the Hunterdon County League Championship in the final game of the league season—defeating Hampton decisively to atone for the defeat suffered at the hands of this team earlier in the season. Prospects are bright for another championship next year because few of the squad are graduating and a strong J. V. team is expected to bolster the varsity.

The Girls' Basketball Team, under the excellent coaching of Miss Rosabel Steinhauer, ended the season runner-up to Frenchtown in the Hunterdon County League, making a record of six victories out of twelve games played. Serridge, Fabian, McCutcheon, Weber, Zanetti, and Nevias will graduate and their going will leave a gap that will be difficult to fill next year.

The Girls' Field Hockey Team, a newly organized sport in Flemington High School, completed a fair inter-scholastic season considering the inexperience of the squad. The first of the two inter-scholastic games was played with Hampton High School and ended in defeat, but the team registered a decisive victory over High Bridge in the second and last game of the season. More games have been scheduled for next year, and it is hoped that this sport will come to occupy an important place in the athletic program of the High School.

Echo Staff

Each passing year has witnessed an increasing demand in the Senior High School especially, for the publication of the Echo. The large number of extra class-activities participated in by students, has stimulated and maintained the demand for a permanent word and picture record of those organizations, associations, and productions which have contributed to the formation of good citizenship habits, associational living, and lasting friendships. Toward this end, the Echo Staff has faithfully worked.

In addition to the usual difficulties of financing a yearbook during a depression period, the staff was faced this year with the problem of building its subscription list from scratch due to the fact that the Activities Tickets had been discontinued. To financially insure the production of a genuinely representative book, the staff solicited advertisements from local merchants and from others who did business with the school. Other sources of revenue were the profits from two "sound" motion picture plays, maintenance of a cloak room at social affairs, sale of "hot dogs" in the lunch line, a "poverty" dance, and a women's faculty-girls' varsity basket-ball game.

The Echo received for the fourth consecutive year, the First Class award from the National Scholastic Press Association.

Student Voice was again rated "All-American" by the National Scholastic Press Association.

The name of this magazine was symbolic of its place in the school, for through it, all pupils had opportunity to express opinions on many topics, and proposed improvements or changes which to them seemed advisable.

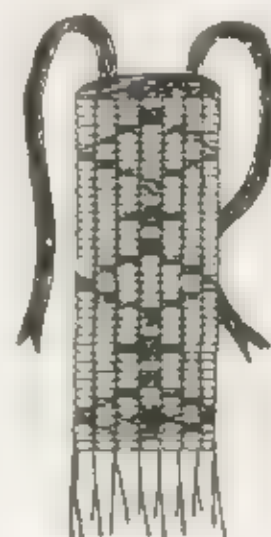

The English classes provided a natural setting for the production of this bi-monthly magazine. All material was prepared in these classes by pupils as part of the regular class work. The staff, under the guidance of the English teacher, edited and selected those stories, poems, editorials, and features which made up the Student Voice.

The editorial staff was composed of one member from each English class in the senior high school, augmented by pupils at large who tried out for positions.

The Key Clickers were an integral part of the Student Voice. This group handled all the mechanical details connected with its production such as typing, cutting stencils, mimeographing and binding. This work was done under the guidance of Miss Blanche Park. Mrs. Dorothy Landis and Miss Marian P. Scott were advisers to the editorial staff, while Miss Helen Yeagle supervised the art work.

Editor-in-chief, Barbara McCutcheon; Business Manager, Katheryne Dektarovich.

Student Council 1st Semester

The avowed aim and goal of the present Student Council is to stress the need for, and to provide for pupils, practice in citizenship through group activity.

In addition to the many student activities already sponsored, coordinated, and supervised for several years by the Council, several additional projects were either initiated by this group, or were taken up as suggestions from students, or faculty members, and established as functioning parts of the expanding program of student participation in the administration of the school.

The Council, this year, accepted co-sponsorship, with many students, and faculty members for the adoption of a standard school seal, which will appear on the school flag and on all class rings, hereafter. The design for the standard seal has been approved, and the present Junior Class will be the first to wear the new ring.

A natural corollary of student participation in school administration is student participation in evolving and applying corrective measures applicable for infraction of rules. To this end, the Council has created, with the consent of the administration, a Student Court consisting of three student judges, and a faculty adviser. Pupil lawyers argue the case for the defendants.

The Council continued to advocate and work for its long established policy of securing increased pupil participation in the assemblies.

First semester officers were: President, Mary Craig; Vice President, Jean Goodell; Secretary-Treasurer, Florence Rowe; Faculty adviser, Mr. Folker.

Because of the apparently greater interest shown in the class elections, possibly due to the fact that the various candidates for each office were selected by self-circulated petitions, the Election Board adopted the same method for choice of candidates for the second semester Student Council.

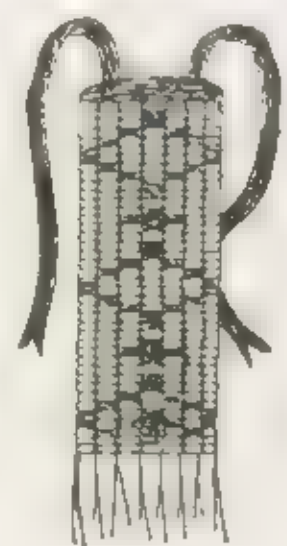

The outlined plans for this organization called for renewed emphasis on those Council activities which were producing the desired improvements in student citizenship, and for such changes and improvements in policy that seemed necessary and advisable.

The plans stressed the need, on the part of the pupils, for a more thorough and complete understanding of proper study hall conduct, the establishment of a "sanitation," and other special weeks, and a new system of Council reports whereby each pupil would receive an individual copy prior to the homeroom discussion period.

In the hope of providing an increased means of student co-operation, and to reduce class interruptions incident to activity program meetings, a bulletin board was to be provided on which to post daily the extra-class, social, recreational, and educational programs of the school, and of the community.

Second semester officers were: President, Dorothy Schomp; Vice President, Naomi Komisar; Secretary-Treasurer, Grace Zenkus. Mr. Robert Folker was faculty adviser.

Athletic Council

The officers of this year's Council were elected last May in accordance with tentative arrangements made by the preceding council in an effort to secure continuity of policy. The present officers were thus enabled to become acquainted with policies and procedures before assuming active office in September.

Under this arrangement, the membership drive of the Athletic Association got under way shortly after the opening of school, and the Council was able to undertake at once attempts to solve its most pressing problem—financing of interscholastic and intra-mural athletics. As was the case with most other extra-class activities, the abandonment of the Activities Ticket compelled the Council to start the year without a definite fund on which it could draw to meet immediate expenses. Funds made available from association memberships were budgeted in accordance with good business practice, and the Council has been able to come through the year without debt. However, if this body is to accomplish its purpose of maintaining interscholastic teams in the various sports, and providing the necessary equipment for them and for intra-mural athletic activities, it must, in the future find adequate sources of income. The proceeds from the Junior-Senior play were donated to the Council.

The increased membership in this organization was clearly indicative of its popularity and of the expanding interest in journalism on the part of the pupils. This year, the class was formally organized under a written constitution. Membership was open to any student in the Senior High School, and members remained in good standing as long as all assignments were satisfactorily fulfilled. To stimulate interest, a series of yearly service awards was instituted. For one year of satisfactory service, a certificate was granted. A successful second year of work in the organization entitled the member to a pin, and for a third year, a special award was provided.

The Hunterdon County Democrat maintained a School News Section in each issue during the school year. Assignments covering all school activities were made to members by Barbara McCutcheon, Editor in-chief. After correction by her, and approval by Miss Marian Scott, faculty adviser, they were turned over to the Democrat for publication.

Mr. Allen Painter of the Democrat staff provided one half-hour of instruction in journalism each week to the members of the class, and checked all articles submitted for publication to insure correct journalistic style on the part of class members.

Band

The reorganized band of Flemington High School this year became more than ever an essential part of both the regular and extra-class activities. On two occasions it performed before the assembly. The musical interludes between acts of the Junior-Senior Play were furnished by it, in addition to the inspiration furnished at all home football games. It participated also in the community celebration on Memorial Day, and in May gave a public, evening performance in the high school auditorium.

The band was a well rounded organization. Each section had the requisite number of trained players to make it effective for both concert and parade work. Prospective members were in training throughout most of the year, and by spring progressed to the place where they took regular places in the organization. The original group of thirty-five members had grown to fifty well trained musicians by May.

The efficiency of this organization was in large measure due to a rehearsal schedule which permitted practice during school hours, and to the employment of a competent instructor one day each week.

Uniforms of white trousers or skirts, red capes and caps trimmed in black, added greatly to the appearance of the organization.

In the past year the Orchestra contributed greatly to the success of school entertainments. The organization was composed of those junior and senior high school pupils whose interest in the Orchestra was outstanding. Miss Sarah Gordon, music supervisor of the Flemington Public Schools, organized and conducted the group.

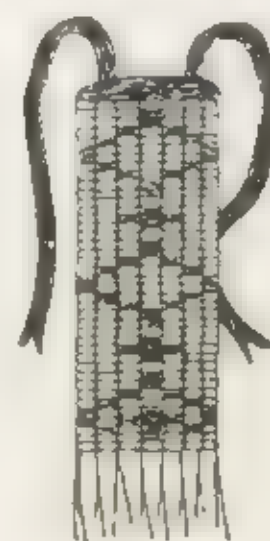

The distinctly progressive step toward a better appreciation and finer technical ability was due partly to the practice schedule introduced in school hours. This arrangement was advantageous to those members who commuted, because it gave ample time for individual and group practice.

The outstanding successes of the Orchestra were at the performances of the Junior High School operetta, "The Mikado," and a concert presented to the public in the spring.

The efforts of the organization, and of Miss Gordon, were well rewarded this year by the greatly increased interest in music shown throughout the school, and by the hearty approval of the community.

Masque and Sandal

During the six years of its existence, the Masque and Sandal Dramatic Club has provided instruction in play production, make-up, stage and scenery setting, and stage management, to many pupils in Flemington High School.

Any pupil who has had a leading role in an operetta or in a Junior Senior play is eligible for membership in the organization. Property and stage managers, or their assistants who show aptitude and ability in their work may apply for membership.

A successful tryout before a senior high assembly is the avenue through which others may join Masque and Sandal.

The aim of the organization to further and promote serious dramatic appreciation in the high school, is in part attained through the staging by the members of at least two one-act plays during the school year. One of these plays is a serious drama, while the other is generally a comedy. Proceeds from these plays are used for the purchase of stage equipment, to procure insignia pins for members, or are donated in part to some other school activity.

Mrs. Dorothy D. Landis founded and organized the Masque and Sandal, and has been its patron and sponsor since its inception.

Since its inception, this organization had the responsibility for the mechanics connected with the publication of Student Voice, Pen and Ink, Pupils Handbook, and other miscellaneous material such as play programs, announcements, and mimeographing connected with subject examinations. The large amount of typing incident to the production of the Echo, the high school year book, was handled by Key Clickers. This was a service organization of the highest type, which performed many essential, though often not spectacular services connected with the extra-class activities in the school.

Membership in the Key Clickers was open to students of the Typing II classes, and to those pupils who had formerly completed that course.

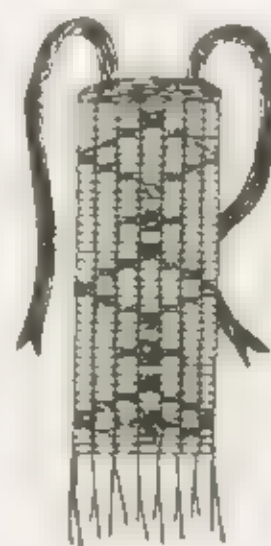

The "Hicksville Bungler," a one act play was presented by the group as an assembly program in February.

Activities of the club for the year were pleasantly concluded by the annual picnic which this year was held at Willow Grove.

Miss Blanche Park organized the Key Clickers in 1933, and has been its sole faculty adviser.

Officers were, President, Florence Rowe; Vice President, Leah Allen; Secretary-Treasurer, Lottie Wilezynski; Business Manager, Katheryne Dektarovich; Assistant Business Manager, Ruth Decker; Advertising Manager, Anna Staats; Assistant Advertising Manager, Ethel Horvath.

Band Of Owls Klub

The B. O. O. K. was a group of twenty-eight students who donated their services to help make the school library more efficient. The group met every second Tuesday to receive instruction in library technique from Mr. Edward Schofield, school librarian. Practice was provided in such library skills as proper shelving, book repairs, cataloguing and numbering, desk practice, checking library attendance, clerical work, caring for special collections such as magazines, files, and catalogues; preparation and care of bulletin boards and special exhibits; and in making the library more attractive and serviceable generally.

This work provided vocational training of a quality that enabled pupils to accurately gauge their ability in this work.

The library services were greatly enlarged under Mr. Schofield's direction. Nine additional book sections were added. A modernized bulletin board, and new newspaper racks added greatly to the efficiency of the library. An increased supply of books and other materials combined with a service which gave the pupils direct access to books and materials enabled the B. O. O. K. members to render better service than formerly.

Appropriate awards were made to members who performed faithful service throughout the year.

Officers were: President, Frances Tufo; Vice President, Irma Barth; Secretary, Anna Pohl; Treasurer, Betty Stryker.

MOTTO:

Learning to do—Doing to learn—Earning to live—Living to serve.

The Flemington High School chapter of the national organization, The Future Farmers of America, was an enthusiastic, progressive group throughout the year.

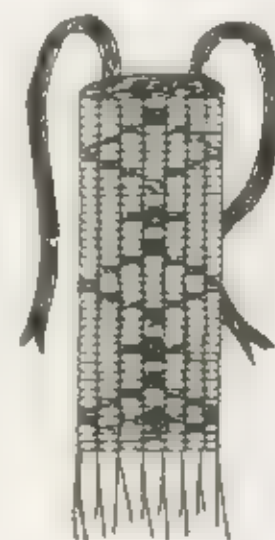

The purpose of the organization is to create a love of nature and country life, promote thrift, develop leadership, scholarship, and to establish the confidence of the farm boy in himself and his work.

The emblem of the organization is the owl, the rising sun, eagle, the plow, and the cross section of an ear of corn carried out in national blue and gold. It is symbolic of wisdom, education in cooperation, tillage of the soil, labor, and a national organization.

The Flemington chapter devoted its activities this year to the judging of agricultural products and live stock. A team representative of the group participated in the State Judging Contest, held bi-annually at the State Agriculture College at New Brunswick.

The officers were: President, Donald Kuhl; Vice President, Douglas Volk; Secretary, Arthur Woodruff; Treasurer, Robert Holzapfel; Reporter, Robert Nief; Faculty adviser, Mr. F. Lodge.

Typesetters Club

This organization provided training for its members in the general techniques of the printing trade. Hand composition, make-up, distribution, and the operation of platten printing presses were taught and practiced under the supervision of Miss Helen Yeagle, printing instructor. From an ordinary class in printing techniques, the club became a service organization for the Flemington Public Schools. Blank forms and other material required for proper conduct and records of extra-class activities were set up and printed by the members. During the past two years this organization took over the production of much of the printed material essential to the efficient administration of the school system. Forms used in recording absence and tardiness, special permission blanks, report cards and the like were printed by the Typesetters at a considerable saving to the administration and extra-class activities.

This work involved various combinations of fundamental principles of typography and printing, and much of it required the application of artistic judgment in its planning and composition. The practical experience gained by the members through the production of actual work has created an interest and incentive that was lacking in former years.

Paul Pegg was treasurer of the organization.

The Culinary Arts Coterie came into existence five years ago, under the name of the Home Economics Club. This year, under the sponsorship of Miss Claire Remmlein, the group adopted its present name.

Membership is confined to pupils in the senior high school who are in the Home Economics course, or who are keenly interested in the subject. The Coterie has for its avowed purpose the development of increased interest and ability of its membership, and appreciation of the importance of home economics in modern society.

At least a partial attainment of aims was accomplished in former years through making candy, and baking of bread and cake. These items were sold to members of the faculty. The income was used to defray whatever expenses the organization incurred.

During the present years regular meetings have been held each Monday afternoon in the Home Economics Department. A mimeographed booklet of favorite recipes has been prepared by members during the meetings, as well as a considerable quantity of handicraft work. The practical application of home economics principles was demonstrated to the Coterie when they visited several large food and candy processing plants in Philadelphia.

Girls' Leaders Corps

The Leaders Corps, a new extra-class activity in our school was organized and sponsored by Miss Rosabell Steinbauer shortly after school opened in September, 1935. It was composed of gymnasium class captains, squad leaders, team managers, and the captains of girls' sports.

Inculcation of ideals of neatness, efficiency and helpfulness, as well as training in citizenship through the assumption of responsibility were the objectives toward which this organization aims.

Bi-monthly meetings were devoted to a discussion of girls' sports and other forms of recreation in which girls were, or might have been interested. In addition, the corps acted as a training coterie to explain the physical education program to the other girls, and to assist them in becoming proficient in sports.

The whole-hearted spirit of the members bore fruit in the form of a neater and cleaner locker room, with curtained windows. On February 8, a playday with High Bridge was sponsored, and on March 29, a county wide playday for non varsity girls was held under Leader Corps supervision. "Past, Present, and Future of Physical Education," was the subject of an assembly program presented by the organization.

The officers were: President, Barbara Weber; Vice President, Margaret Serridge; Secretary, Lucia Zanetti; Treasurer, Florence Rowe.

This organization underwent a radical reorganization during the present year under the direction of Miss Sarah Gordon, music supervisor in the Flemington Schools.

To provide opportunity for advanced part singing and to provide the opportunity for students to derive pleasure from group singing, membership was opened to all interested pupils who were enthusiastic and who promised regular attendance at rehearsals. Sixty-five members met during the half-hour period each Friday, and, after Christmas, an additional hour each week was allotted for practice.

The high quality of the organization's work evident when they sang the cantata "Wondrous Story" at Christmas time. Subsequently, a program of folk songs was given before the high school assembly; a similar evening performance for the public was given in May.

Additional evidence of the high quality of the club's work was attested to by the fact that they gave a successful half-hour broadcast from a Trenton radio station. In addition, the group participated in the Commencement exercises in June, and four of the members were honored by being chosen to represent the Flemington High School in the famous All-State High School Chorus which sang in Atlantic City.

Athletic Association Play

"Growing Pains," a hilarious comedy of adolescence, was presented in the auditorium of the high school on the evenings of the twenty eighth and twenty ninth of March. The plot centered around the efforts of Professor and Mrs. McIntyre to help their children overcome many of the embarrassing social difficulties which the growing young people encountered.

George McIntyre, played by Robert Nief, evoked both mirth and sympathy from the audience when he fell in love with Prudence, a vamp who attended a party given in celebration of the removal of George's tonsils. Matters were further complicated when George, in an attempt to please Prudence was arrested for speeding while returning home with an additional supply of ice cream for the party. When Prudence informed George that she did not care for him, he sought solace and happiness in the favor of a beautiful blue eyed blonde, and the comedy ended with everybody happy.

This comedy was an ideal medium for the creation of a better understanding of the problems of egoistic adolescence on the part of those who witnessed it.

Proceeds from the play were donated to the Athletic Association.

Pet Club

This organization owed its origin to a general interest on the part of pupils in the community, in a friendly little Boston terrier—"Merrie Patter"—adopted as the club mascot.

Through study, reading, assembly programs, and an annual Pet Show, the club aimed to interest pupils in better care and training of their pets, to inculcate a humanitarian attitude toward all animals, to further an interest in pets in the community and to interest members in good books about pets. The club was open to all members of the Junior High School.

The work of this group reached its climax in the annual Pet Show held in the High School gymnasium in the spring. The first show held in the spring of 1931 had somewhat less than one hundred entries. Increased interest was evidenced by the fact that almost three hundred pets were catalogued in the last show. The club now owns its own exhibition cages.

Competent judges have donated their services and the community has shown its interest through attendance and donation of awards.

Members sponsored trips to other pet shows, community welfare, and a club excursion to West Point.

Mrs. Stryker, who sponsored the club, has acted as its adviser since its inception in the fall of 1930.

Pen and Ink, the Flemington Junior High School magazine was first published by the Press Club in November, 1930, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Helen Hall. To provide practice in writing and editing, Pen and Ink was, from the fall of 1931 to the fall of 1934, published in rotation by the Junior High School homerooms. Due to apparent lack of interest in this method, its publication has, since 1934, reverted to the Press Club. This organization published a special Christmas edition of Pen and Ink, and a graduation number, Ink Drops.

The former magazine started as six-page newspaper, and has now grown to a twelve-page monthly magazine which aims to depict and interpret to the pupils and community the life and interests of the Junior High School. Its circulation has grown from a few copies to over two hundred fifty. This means practically a copy for each member enrolled in the Junior School.

Officers of the club were: President, Jean McCutcheon; Vice President, Belmont Worman; Secretary, Jean Strouse; Treasurer of Press Club, Harold Cregar; Treasurer of Pen and Ink, Lucille Karrow. Miss Mills was sponsor and adviser for the club as well as for Pen and Ink, and Ink Drops.

APPRECIATION

Appreciation is a relative term—it may be deep or may be shallow. The staff of the Echo realizes that the publication of this yearbook, as a representative, inclusive record of the present high school year, would have been practically impossible without the moral and financial aid of the business and professional men of the community served by Flemington High School.

We thank you heartily and sincerely for your help and encouragement. It is our hope and wish that the community which you serve, and of which our High School is a part, will, through their continued patronage, help to maintain the Echo as a representative summary of the school year.

WEBSTER SAYS:

An Echo is "The Repetition of a Sound Caused by Reflection."

BAKER'S

Congratulates the graduates and faculty and trusts the reflection will be exceptionally creditable to your Alma Mater.

Success to all of you! Hitch your wagon (your ambition) to a star, but don't forget you must help the horse when you hit a steep grade.

(Work)—Where? Your school training has taught you to use your brains. From personal experience I can assure you the "Grass is not Greener" in any other town—it only looks Greener. Flemington is your big opportunity. Boost your own town.
